

The Shap working party on World Religions in Education

Gill Rose

I am probably the newest member of the Shap working party, having been invited to join the calendar team last year.

I have however been unofficially working with David over many years on the photography aspects of the calendar. This has involved research of topics, helping with photography (which has included travel to interesting places and events), retrieval of photographs from the collection and acting as a sound-board for bouncing ideas.

When I was teaching I found the Shap materials invaluable, so I feel it a real privilege to be invited to join the working party.
